

Heavy brake calipers for Light Commercial Vehicles

The Danish manufacturer of brake calipers, Budweg Caliper A/S, is not only a supplier of calipers for ordinary vehicles and electrical cars, but also offers an extensive range of 2500 caliber models for Light Commercial Vehicles (LCV) – popularly known as vans.

Light commercial vehicles, or vans, are the workhorses and mules of this age that are being utilized for almost anything that requires a strong back and dependable performance: delivery of small goods, as an extended toolbox for contractors, and transportation for a host of various materials and effects. Despite that the vehicles are classified as “light”, most duties performed by an LCV are anything but light. On the contrary, most LCVs are stuffed to the brim (usually with heavy materials), which is where braking capabilities comes into play, as you will need some serious braking power to dependably stop a loaded van at full velocity. Better be safe.

Budweg Caliper – also calipers for LCVs

Budweg is well-known for the company’s extensive range of high-quality brake calipers for personal vehicles, but the company also offers a wide selection of brake calipers for LCVs; in fact, the range of calipers includes more than 2500 models, which covers 92% of the LCVs on the European roads.

LCV calipers might be bigger, but the quality of the caliper is exactly the same as for any other Budweg product, that is, the highest possible level of product quality manufactured by skilled craftsmen in Denmark, which is why Budweg’s claims level is consistently below 0.3% for all product types.

Spare parts and support for a strenuous life

Given the strenuous life of an LCV, it is a comfort knowing that friendly support and fresh spare parts are readily available nearby. Especially given the new traffic regulations seen in many urban areas, where larger trucks are prevented from entering inner city zones, and the LCV is instead delegated to perform the tasks of the larger vehicles, which drastically reduce the component life-time for LCV calipers.

To get the most milage out of your LCV calipers, Budweg offers spare-part kits for all the company’s products, including for the range of LCVs – so a fresh set of spares is readily available nearby if the calipers need some replacements and love. Furthermore, Budweg will also gladly support the mechanic performing the maintenance through our technical hotline and online guides.
